

Biblical Languages

Greek, Hebrew and Latin are essential for studying theology. Small size classes and intensive courses allow all three to be learned thoroughly within three semesters. This is also one of the best ways to improve your German. A state-recognized test at the end of each course gives you certification for all universities in Germany and provides you with a strong foundation to begin your studies.

Lutherische
Theologische
Hochschule

Lutherische
Theologische
Hochschule

Lutherische Theologische Hochschule
Altkönigstraße 150 · 61440 Oberursel · Germany
Tel.: +49 6171-91 27-0 · Fax: +49 6171-91 27-70
www.lthh-oberursel.de · lthh@lthh-oberursel.de ·
Facebook: www.facebook.com/LThH.Oberursel ·
Instagram: www.instagram.com/lthh\_ou ·
Twitter: www.twitter.com/lthh\_ou

Lutheran! And Personal!

Come and study theology in Oberursel!

Lutherische Theologische Hochschule Oberursel (LThH)

The Lutheran Theological Seminary offers two degree programs: a Masters of Protestant Theology and the Theological Exam for those who are called to pastoral ministry. Both are fully accredited by the state of Germany and recognized by other major German churches, as well as many churches around the world. The Seminary is supported by the Selbständige Evangelisch-Lutherische Kirche (SELK – the Independent Lutheran Church in Germany).

Studying at the LThH opens a whole world of study possibilities. You can take courses at the nearby universities in Frankfurt and Mainz and change to another university without losing any progress towards your degree. And, did we mention that our fees are very low? In fact, you can even apply for a variety of fellowships to support your living costs while you study.

Both degrees encompass the full spectrum of theological topics from a Lutheran perspective. Our particular research emphases concentrate on the Lutheran Confessions as well as biblical research.

Campus Life

Our Campus has a fantastic location. Frankfurt, with all its amenities, is very accessible. But you'd never know that you're so close to one of Europe's most important cities when you go to sleep at night, because we are situated at the edge of a large forest. This means hiking, fresh air, and a peaceful study environment.

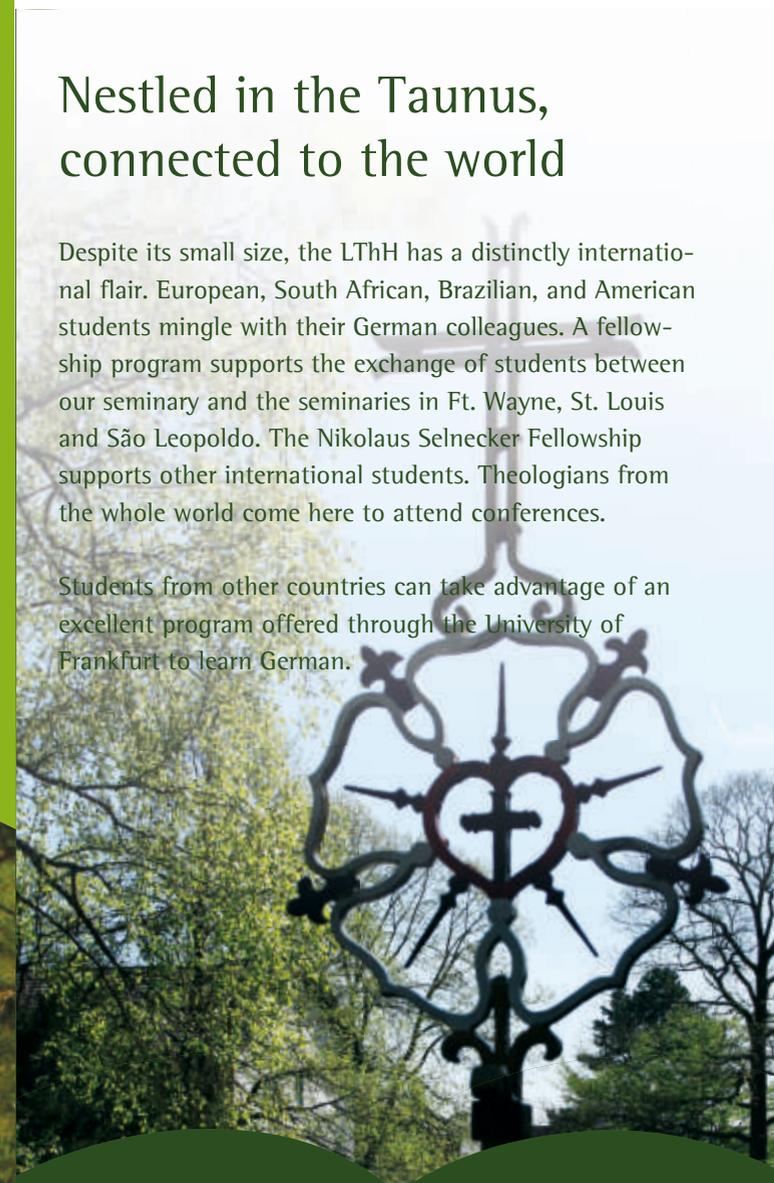

There is also a lot going on. When you live on campus you are always very close to your classes, you have 24/7 library access, you can attend on-campus conferences and symposia, and if you need help, your professors are a 5-minute walk away. Daily chapel services, a pick-up soccer culture, a brass band and barbecuing are all part of our community life.

Nestled in the Taunus, connected to the world

Despite its small size, the LThH has a distinctly international flair. European, South African, Brazilian, and American students mingle with their German colleagues. A fellowship program supports the exchange of students between our seminary and the seminaries in Ft. Wayne, St. Louis and São Leopoldo. The Nikolaus Selnecker Fellowship supports other international students. Theologians from the whole world come here to attend conferences.

Students from other countries can take advantage of an excellent program offered through the University of Frankfurt to learn German.

Let's go!

- Excellent study-program!
- Intensive language classes!
- International community!
- Fellowships!
- Lutheran. Personal!